

Dear colleagues,

I am Dr. Edith, head of the team tasked with recreating the PX-597 antidote against gamma radiation, which has been reaching dangerous levels for several years now. I am writing to ask for your help.

The formula for the PX-597 antidote was known when the COMET lab was created, but since the geomagnetic storm of 2135, we have lost the list of ingredients. Our experiments have restored all the elements except the chemical catalyst... we are so close to replicating the chemical process!

However, we have been informed that the lab's founder (of whom we have almost no trace) may have hidden the last ingredient in an old document. But before looking into that, the first step is to investigate an image we found that belonged to the founder.

Your 1st mission:

Attached to this letter is the image in question, which contains a curious sentence. Can you find the full name of the person mentioned?

Dr Édith C. K.
